TO BUILD A WIGWAM.

The Prohibitionists Decide to Erect a Hall to Hold their Meetings In.

[From Morning Edition.]

About twenty-five of the Leonard and Frost men met at their club room at 7:30 o'clock last evening, to talk over the project of building a wigwam. Wilbur Colvin presided. G. S. Morrow made a speech of some length in favor of the scheme. He said he had been feeling about the town, examining empty lots, etc., and had come to the conclusion that the wigwam could be built and everything put in good shape inside of six weeks. R. S. Thompson made quite a stumpy speech about prohibition, Salvation army, hard battle, victory, etc. He was in favor of having a building put up at once and holding practical campaign meetings all through the winter. He mentioned the different plans, a joint stock company, an incorporated society, etc. A committee should be appointed this evening to arrange a plan and report on Thursday evening.

A. L. Slater expressed his concurrence in everything and his willingness to do anything. Ed. Miller was in favor of whooping the thing right along, collecting a dollar from every male proli, and quarters and dimes from the women and children. He said that Dr. Leonard had already spoken for the privilege of preaching the dedicatory sermon for the new building. Sundry other speeches were made to the same effect.

A motion was made by Ed. Miller that a committee of five be appointed to select a site, arrange a plan of organization, and report on Thursday evening.

G. S. Morrow objected to the size of the committee. A committee of one he thought large enough. He himself knew all about location. They ought to appoint a small committee and give it discretion to select a site.

R. S. Thompson objected on the ground that, as the club had no legal existence, it could not authorize anyone to purchase anything. If he should buy he could not hold a single member of the club liable. He thought it better to decide upon a plan of organization first and direct the Executive Committee to have the club incorporated on the morrow. R. S. Thompson suggested that the whole thing be left to the executive committee. This aroused Mr. Mor-row's ire, for it shut him out on the selection of the site. He said the executive committee was not appointed for that purpose. They were not "adapted to building sites." They knew no more about it than the man in the moon. They should select someone adapted to this business and trust him to secure the ritual of a building site. T. Danforth King, M. D., was in favor of having the matter of incorporation to the executive committee and appointing a committee of three to secure a site.

Mr. Miller withdrew his motion and a motion of Mr. Thompson's that the executive committee proceed at once to incorporate the club was adopted.

Mr. Miller moved to appoint a committee of five to select a site. An amendment by Mr. King was adopted making the number three. An amendment making the committee elective was adopted on motion of Mr.

Thompson. About a dozen nominations were made and the ballot showed the following committee elected: D. S. Morrow, A. R.

Ludlow and T. Danforth King, M. D.

After the committee was elected, Mr. Morrow suggested as the Pierce property on High street, the Kinsey property on Washington street, Mrs. Harney's lot on Columbia street and a lot belonging to Marshall Steele on Factory street. He asked which of these they liked best, but they refused to give an explanation.

Mr. Morrow moved that the club proceed to build a hall and it was unanimously carried, after which the meeting adjourned.

DAUGHTERS OF REBECCA.

Absorb Fifty-Six New Members and a Big

Banquet.

[From Morning Edition.]

Last night was a most memorable one among the local organizations of the I. O. O. F., as the occasion of the initiation of the largest class ever known in the state.

Twenty-eight ladies and twenty-eight gentlemen were initiated into the mysteries of the Rebecca degree by the Degree Staff of Naum

Lodge, No. 6, D. R., of Columbus.

The personnel of the team is as follows: Captain

David Mowbray; Noble Grand, Mrs. Jennie

Zane; Right Supporter to N. G., Mrs. Henry

Lodt; Left Supporter to N. G., Mrs. M. Holland; Vice Grand, Mrs. Carrie Habicht; R.

S. to V. G., Mrs. O. Cloud; L. S. to

V. G., Mrs. J. Brader; Past Grand,

Mrs. J. J. Fanson; conductor, Mrs. Z. K.

Fagenbach; warden, Mrs. J. H. Harper; L.

G. Mrs. David Mowbray; organist, Mrs.

William J. J. Fanson; George Saxe and

Al. Hynd.

The work was done in magnificent style and occupied the attention of the crowd from seven o'clock until almost nine. The paraphernalia used was costly and beautiful in the extreme. After the initiation was over Past Grand Charles L. Young, of Columbus, entertained them with delicious and stirring address on Old Fellowship and speeches were made by other prominent visitors.

Among these were Past Grand, Patrick

Wolter, of Dayton; Grand Warden C. H. Lyman, of Columbus; Grand Senior Warden

Adam Frank, of Germantown, and others.

The concert present was well received by visiting delegations from Columbus, Dayton, Germantown, Vienna, Urbana, Mansburg and other neighboring cities.

After the guests were over the company was led up stairs to the banquet hall, where they dined of a magnificent feast, containing everything that could satisfy the inward longings of man. It is estimated that fully 200 people partook of the banquet.

Hot Water.

At the Grand on Saturday evening, Oct.

31, Alce Harrison and a strong company will present that laughable comedy, Hot Water. The following is from the Commercial Gazette, Pittsburgh, Oct. 13: "Hot Water" is a bright, roasting comedy, which enables Miss Alice Harrison, in the part of a little French soubrette, to develop her great comic powers, together with an immense amount of fun furnished by the rest of the company.

There is a sprinkling of excellent singing and music, consisting of catchy, popular airs, and a great amount of comical absurdities. The three husbands are constantly kept in hot water owing to the astonishing confusion which results from the finding by the injured wives curious notes inside the head-covering of their husbands.

The play was more than well received, and is bound to be a great go. Seats now on sale at the usual place.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

A Proposition to Cut Down the Grade of High Street at Jail Hill.

[From Morning Edition.]

The regular meeting of the city council last evening was uneventful. Fourteen members were present. The absentees were Messrs. Mast, Copley, Grube and McKenna.

Vice President Conklin was in the chair.

Mr. Trehan presented a resolution instructing the committee on streets and highways and the engineer to report to council a profile for a change of grade on High street between Limestone and Gallagher.

Explaining the object of the resolution, Mr.

Trehan said that, if the grade of High street between the points mentioned was ever to be lowered, it should be done before the government obtains a title to jail hill. He said that as soon as the property passed into the hands of the government no change of grade would ever be allowed. Mr. Trehan said that it was not necessary to cut down the grade this fall —all that was necessary to do was to establish the grade.

Mr. Prince was opposed to the project on which his property is located, they owners on that part of the street on which change of grade was proposed to be made would demand heavy damages. He thought the city would have done better had it donated $5,000 or $7,000 and had the government building located on a better site.

Mr. Johnson moved that the councilmen of the sixth ward be requested to ascertain from the property owners whether they would demand damages if the grade was lowered. He thought that a cut of five feet at Spring and High streets would be about the proper thing.

Mr. Johnston's motion was carried by a vote of thirteen yeas to one no.

The solicitor read a communication from William H. C. Goodell, of West Main street, complaining that on account of the I. R. &amp; W.

crossing at Main street not being properly
